

THE GREAT BRITISH SUSTAINABLE SAVERS CENSUS 2020

THE GREAT BRITISH SUSTAINABLE SAVERS CENSUS 2020

Report authors

Holly Mackay

Founder and CEO

holly@boringmoney.co.uk

Georgina Clarke

Director of Research Projects and Business Development

georgina@boringmoney.co.uk

Jessica Galletley

Research Manager

jessica@boringmoney.co.uk

Ellie Watson

Research Executive

ellie@boringmoney.co.uk

Contents

1	Executive Summary	6
2	Tracking change from 2019 to 2020 – your summary ‘Cheat Sheet’	8
3	Introduction	10
3.1	Foreword	11
3.2	Detailed Methodology and Definitions	12
3.2.1	Consumer research	12
3.2.2	Adviser research	12
3.2.3	Key to different audiences	12
4	Market backdrop: Setting the Scene	13
4.1	Summary	14
4.2	Market context	14
4.2.1	Amount invested in sustainable or ethical funds is increasing	14
4.2.2	The former assumption of underperformance has been discredited	15
4.3	Background: what you need to know	15
4.3.1	This shift towards sustainable living	15
4.3.2	Consumer interest in sustainable investing	16
4.3.3	Upcoming regulatory change	17
4.4	The consumer landscape	18
4.4.1	Segmenting the population based on their sustainable investment preferences	18
4.4.2	Our segments split by savers and investors	19
4.4.3	Understanding the segments	21
4.5	Food for thought	23
5	Defining the Sustainable Approach	24
5.1	Summary	25
5.2	The Consumer View	25
5.2.1	Understanding of sustainable investing	25
5.2.2	Awareness and understanding of sustainable investing terminology	26
5.2.3	Investing expectations based on fund names	26
5.3	The Adviser View	27
5.4	Food for Thought	28
6	Appetite for Sustainable Investments	29
6.1	Summary	30
6.2	The Consumer View	30
6.2.1	Current holding of sustainable or ethical investments	30
6.2.2	Is it important that fund managers offer sustainable investments?	32
6.2.3	Access to sustainable investments	34
6.2.4	Reasons for investing sustainably	34
6.2.5	Barriers to investing sustainably	36
6.2.6	Value of speaking to an adviser about sustainable investing	37
6.3	The Adviser View	38
6.3.1	Conversations had with clients	38
6.3.2	How client conversations happen	39
6.3.3	Client portfolios	40
6.4	Food for Thought	42

7	Brand consideration	43
7.1	Summary	44
7.2	The Consumer View	44
7.2.1	Asset manager consideration	44
7.2.2	Importance that providers run their businesses sustainably	45
7.3	The Adviser View	46
7.3.1	Asset managers used	46
7.4	Food for Thought	47
8	Trade-offs: Assessing Sustainable Performance	48
8.1	Summary	49
8.2	The Consumer View	49
8.2.1	Performance vs sustainability	49
8.2.2	Perception of oil – dividends versus environmental impact	50
8.2.3	The implications of investing sustainably	51
8.2.4	Interest in ‘sin stock’ for higher returns	52
8.2.5	Views on avoiding certain brands	55
8.3	The Adviser View	57
8.4	Food for Thought	57
9	Design and Communication	58
9.1	Summary	59
9.2	The Consumer View	59
9.2.1	Investors’ sustainable preferences	59
9.2.2	Specific ESG factors	60
9.2.3	Confidence in own investment customisation based on beliefs	61
9.2.4	Most important information	62
9.2.5	Marketing sustainable investments to consumers	62
9.2.6	Keeping up to date on sustainable investments	63
9.3	The Adviser View	64
9.4	Food for Thought	64
10	Mapping funds to consumer segments	65
10.1	Summary	66
10.2	Funds to consider	66
11	Sustainable Investing & Workplace Pensions	68
11.1	Summary	69
11.2	Consumer awareness	69
11.3	Appetite for sustainable investing in a workplace pension	70
11.4	Championing sustainability: Interest in specific ESG factors	72
11.5	Workplace pension holders want to champion environmental issues	72
11.6	Interest in having a vote	72
11.7	Food for Thought	73
12	Adviser capabilities and challenges	74
12.1	Summary	75
12.2	Adviser confidence	75
12.3	Barriers and support needed	76
12.4	Awareness of upcoming regulatory requirements	78
12.5	Investment process	78
12.6	Identifying ESG advocates among advisers	79
12.7	Food for Thought	82
13	Conclusion	83

List of figures

Figure 1: Everyday habits	15
Figure 2: Motivations for living sustainably	16
Figure 3: Why sustainable investing appeals to investors	17
Figure 4: Adviser awareness of MiFID II	17
Figure 5: Segments, by age	21
Figure 6: Segments, by gender	21
Figure 7: Everyday habits, by segment	22
Figure 8: Interest in different statements, by segments	23
Figure 9: Understanding of the term 'sustainable investing'	25
Figure 10: Investor awareness and understanding of different investing terms	26
Figure 11: Investment expectations based on fund names	27
Figure 12: Terminology used by advisers	27
Figure 13: Confidence using different terms	28
Figure 14: Sustainable or ethical investing ownership and consideration, by advice use	31
Figure 15: Sustainable or ethical investing ownership and consideration, by age and gender	31
Figure 16: Sectors invested in and investment intentions of fund investors	32
Figure 17: Importance of a fund manager offering sustainable investments	33
Figure 18: Importance of a fund manager offering sustainable investments, by ownership and considerations of sustainable investments	33
Figure 19: Attitudes towards the availability of sustainable investments	34
Figure 20: Fund investor attitudes towards investing in sustainable funds	35
Figure 21: Reasons for investing more in sustainable investments	35
Figure 22: Reasons for not investing in sustainable or ethical investments	36
Figure 23: Value a conversation with an adviser about sustainable investments	37
Figure 24: Agreement that it is in the adviser's remit to talk about non-financial motivations	38
Figure 25: Proportion of clients who would value / have had ESG conversations	39
Figure 26: Initiating conversations with clients	39
Figure 27: Adviser process for asking about ESG investing	40
Figure 28: Current and expected demand for ESG across different age groups	41
Figure 29: Clients investing in Junior stocks and shares ISAs	41
Figure 30: Fund manager consideration for sustainable investments	45
Figure 31: Expectations of businesses running sustainably	45
Figure 32: Fund managers used to invest clients' money	46
Figure 33: Preferred fund managers to invest clients' money	47
Figure 34: Most important aim of investments, for savers and investors	50

Figure 35: Attitudes towards investing in oil companies	51
Figure 36: Attitudes towards sustainability and returns	52
Figure 37: Allocation of £1,000 across four investment options – scenario 1	53
Figure 38: Allocation of £1,000 across four investment options – scenario 2	53
Figure 39: Proportion of respondents	54
Figure 40: Investor comfort including different brands in investment portfolio	56
Figure 41: Investor brand holdings	56
Figure 42: Adviser perceptions of client appetite	57
Figure 43: Preferred investment approach of savers and investors	60
Figure 44: Factors that would make investors more likely to invest in a sustainable fund	61
Figure 45: Investor interest in customising a set of investments according to personal beliefs	61
Figure 46: Most important information when making a sustainable investment	62
Figure 47: Interest in statements about investing sustainably	63
Figure 48: Preference for being kept informed about sustainable investment progress	63
Figure 49: Perceived client interest in different investment approaches	64
Figure 50: Awareness of workplace pension	69
Figure 51: Awareness of being able to request a move to a sustainable portfolio	70
Figure 52: Plans for moving workplace pension to a sustainable portfolio	71
Figure 53: Factors interested in championing with pension savings	72
Figure 54: Attitudes towards casting a vote on your pension	73
Figure 55: Confidence in broaching the subject of ESG investing	75
Figure 56: Barriers that prevent adviser writing more ESG business	77
Figure 57: Priorities for asset managers	77
Figure 58: Adviser awareness of MiFID II requirements	78
Figure 59: Services or tools used to select ESG investments	78
Figure 60: Likely approach adviser would take when creating ESG investment portfolio	79
Figure 61: Advisers' personal interest in investing in ESG	80
Figure 62: Adviser's personal interest in ESG by confidence	80